Welcome to week 13 of the Summer Veggie Box! Isn’t it amazing the diverse variety of produce that can grow right here in Mid-Michigan? One of our favorite aspects of the Veggie Box is how the program trains us to prepare meals based on what is currently in-season. When fruits and vegetables are picked for consumption that have been naturally ripened on the vine or the tree they have much more flavor and nutrition. This is true for the Fall Veggie Box as well - keep the tasty, nutritious food coming! See the attached flyer for more information about the Fall Veggie Box!

Producer Spotlight: Green Eagle Farm

Steve and Chela of Green Eagle Farm have been farmers and stewards of the land for over 20 years. They take great joy in growing a wide variety of crops and experimenting with new and unique products, all while being earth friendly in their practices. You know they care about what they do when you see the lemon and mature fig tree carefully protected from the Michigan winters in one of their hoop houses. Not long after Steve and Chela met, the two knew they were destined to be together as life partners and land stewards. Now they grow a large selection of vegetables, flowers, and herbs, including heirloom and open-pollinated varieties. Keeping the health of the land as their top priority, all of Green Eagle Farm’s produce is ecologically-grown and follows organic standards.

Crop Profile: Dragon Tongue Beans

Dragon Tongue beans are an open pollinated heirloom variety originally cultivated in the late eighteenth, early nineteenth century in the Netherlands. They are flat and cream coloured with purple stripes, which fade when they have been cooked (a convenient cooking indicator!). To showcase their coloring utilize young beans in raw preparations such as salads or served alongside creamy dips. Dragon Tongue beans are also perfect for pickling along with fresh herbs, spices, and other vegetables. Fresh Dragon Tongue beans can also be stir-fried, braised or battered and fried in tempura batter.

Dragon Tongue Beans with Onions and Lemon
Adapted from theclevercarrot.com

- Veggie Box Dragon Tongue beans, trimmed
- 1 Veggie Box onion
- 1 Veggie Box garlic clove, thinly sliced
- ¼ tsp. dried red chili flakes (depending on preference)
- 1 lemon
- olive oil
- coarse, flaky sea salt

In a large sauté pan, warm a splash of olive oil over medium-low heat. Add the beans, onion, garlic and chili flakes. Season with salt. Sauté the beans until fragrant, about 1 minute. Add a small splash of water to the pan, and place a lid on top. Cook the beans on low for about 3-5 minutes. Tip: If your heat is too high, the outside will overcook, causing the inside to remain crunchy. Remove the lid, and continue to cook until all of the moisture has evaporated and the beans are crisp tender. Add a small squeeze of lemon juice to taste. Adjust with more lemon and salt as desired. Serve warm.

Veggie box Potatoes
Adapted from seriouseats.com

- Shred potatoes and place in a bowl of water and let sit for 1 hour. A layer of potato starch will form in the bottom of the bowl - you will want to remove potatoes and pour off water, but reserve the starch. Wrap shredded potatoes in a cheesecloth or tea-towel. Twist bundle until water flows out, and squeeze all potatoes until dry. Transfer potatoes to a large mixing bowl along with diced onion. Mix starch into potato and onion mixture with your hands. Mix in egg, salt and matzo meal/flour until latke mix can be formed into patties that just stick together in your hands. Heat 1/2 inch oil in a cast iron skillet over medium-high heat until a shred of potato immediately bubbles when added to pan. Form latke mix into patties and slide into pan, cooking no more than 4 at a time. Fry until a golden-brown crust forms on bottom, then flip with a slotted spatula and fork until same color is achieved on other side. Serve with either sour cream or applesauce on top.
